Meeting Tonight

Democrats To Take Over In Township

Bristol Township's Board of Commissioners will reorganize tonight with the Democrats taking over the reins.

In addition to three new commissioners being sworn in to four-year terms, the Democratic majority is expected to name a new chairman and vice chairman of the board, secretary and solicitor.

James N. Kline, commissioner from Levittown's 10th ward, is slated to take over chairmanship of the 10-man board from Harry W. Fawkes, Republican from Croydon's first ward.

Vice Chairmanship

Jack J. Ward, eighth ward, Levittown, is tabbed for the vice chairmanship held by Joseph Bellerby from Croydon's second ward. Although a Democrat, Bellerby will be in the minority. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Good Evening!

Pope Paul VI returns to Rome after an historic pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

The pontiff's tour of the sacred shrines of Christianity and his meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras — the first such meeting between a pope and a patriarch since 1439 — are certain to have a broad-range impact on the world.

And the impact most surely will be for the good of mankind.

New board of county commissioners formally inducted today. Judge Satterthwaite installed on the orphans court bench, and former District Attorney Paul Beckert now Judge Beckert.

Our congratulations and best wishes to all.

Now, maybe this new county administration will be able to operate with a minimum of political overtones? If Commissioners Bodley, Canby and Farley succeed in subordinating political interest to the public interest the next four years could be years of distinction indeed.

President Johnson back at the White House after a two-weeks' vacation at his ranch in Texas and ready to turn his attention to his first State-of-the-Union message to Congress on Wednesday.

Much attention he'll be giving, of course, to important legislation. Tax reduction, civil rights and Medicare are the big ones and the President will have his hands full.

January thaw continues with mild skies all the way.

But we refuse to make any predictions about an early spring until we see what the groundhog thinks February 2.

Not even an egotist is all bad. At least he doesn't go around talking about other people.

Always laugh heartily at your boss's jokes — he may be giving a loyalty test.

What we really need is a new child labor law to keep the kids from working their parents to death.

Take it easy with the driving, please.

Roaring Welcome In Rome

ROME (UPI) — Pope Paul VI returned to a roaring Roman welcome today from a triumphal pilgrimage to the Holy Land where he sought Christian unity in religious summit talks and cabled peace appeals to 224 world leaders.

Hundreds of Rome church bells tolled, a 21-gun salute boomed and a crowd of thousands cheered as the pontiff's yellow- and white decorated chartered DC8 jetliner touched down at Rome's Ciampino Airport, ending the first papal trip to the Holy Land in 2,000 years of Christianity. The airliner landed at 6:21 p.m. (12:21 p.m. EST) after a flight of nearly 3½ hours from Amman, Jordan.

The 66-year-old Pope, looking tired but happy, stepped out of the Alitalia plane to be greeted by a host of dignitaries. Including Italian President Antonio Segni, Premier Ido Moro, members of the diplomatic corps and a group of cardinals and bishops.

A majestic torchlight reception awaited the Pope on his drive through the streets of ancient Rome to Vatican City where thousands more were on hand to greet "Il Papa."

Visibly tired after three stress-filled days during which he was besieged by cheering throngs of Moslems, Christians and Jews, the pontiff climaxed his trip today with a second historical summit meeting with Patriarch Athenagoras of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

The bearded 77-year-old Athenagoras I of Constantinople and Pope Paul, 66-year-old head of the world's more than half-billion Roman Catholics embraced each other warmly and exchanged firm pledges to seek to heal the schism that has split their churches for more than nine centuries.

First Such Encounter

The meeting between the Pope and the patriarch was the first such encounter between the Eastern and Western church leaders in 500 years.

Pope Paul, the first pontiff in nearly 2,000 years of Christianity to visit the land where Christ lived, preached and died on the cross, was seen off from Amman airport by Jordan's King Hussein after throngs of Jordanians gave the pontiff a surging roaring goodbye as he departed. Mild Weather Thaws River

The mild weather of recent days has caused the Delaware River to flow again.

Snow and sub-freezing temperatures choked the river solidly between Dec. 19 and Saturday when the first break took place.

The mild weather is expected to turn a bit cooler tomorrow, due in part to brief showers expected late tonight.

Greater Bucks String Band Wins 8th In Mummers Parade

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

I marched with the Mummers.

And I spent yesterday resting a pair of tired "dogs."

Before Saturday's parade along Philadelphia's Broad St., I had been an armchair viewer of the colorful spectacle. But marching in the traditional New Year's Parade (postponed until Saturday by last Wednesday's freezing rain and sleet) is quite an experience.

Four-Mile Hike

From Broad and Porter Sts.,

where the 15,000 Mummers formed, I walked more than four miles in less than four hours with the Greater Bucks County String Band. The "hike" wound up shortly after 4 p.m. on Spring Garden St.

The Greater Bucks band, portraying the "Fighting 69th" famed World War I infantry division, took eighth place prize money of $1,370 among the 22 competing bands.

Roundly Applauded

But if the decision were up to the 300,000 spectators lined along the entire route, Greater Bucks may well have come off with top honors. All along the route the band was roundly applauded for its precision drill and musical renditions of such World War I favorites as "Over There," "Tipperary," "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag" and "Hinky, Dinky Parlez Vous."

While much of the glamor of the 64th annual Mummers Parade was taken away by the controversial blackface dispute, there seemed to be no tenseness among the spectators — both Negro and white — when the Greater Bucks band marched by in its white. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

200 Watch Ceremonies In Doylestown

Beckert, Satterthwaite Take Oaths; 3 County Commissioners Sworn In

Paul R. Beckert and Edwin H. Satterthwaite took their new judicial offices this morning before more than 200 persons in the Bucks County Courthouse, Doylestown.

Also sworn in was the new three-man board of commissioners and five other elected officials along with a number of deputies.

President Judge Edward G. Biester administered the oath of office to Judge Satterthwaite who took the office as president judge of Orphans Court. Judge Satterthwaite then swore in Beckert who succeeds him as judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

Donned Robes

After he was sworn in, Judge Beckert donned the judicial robes and then took his seat on the judicial bench in Courtroom 1. There was a ripple of laughter as Judge Beckert apparently had trouble locating a button on his robe.

The courtroom was gaily decked with bouquets of flowers.

Taking the oath of office as county commissioners were John J. Bodley, who is returning for a second term, and Joseph O. Canby, both Republicans, and Walter S. Farley Jr., minority Democrat.

Other Officials

Other officials sworn in include Kathryn E. Dinnerman, clerk of quarter sessions; William J. Veitch, an incumbent.

Ex-Bucks Educator

Dr. Cammarota Dies At 41 In Albany, N.Y.

Dr. Gloria Cammarota, former assistant superintendent of Bucks County schools, died Saturday at the Albany Medical Center, Albany, N.Y., after a brief illness. She was 41.

A family spokesman said she had been operated on Friday. She was reportedly in good spirits following the operation — "exuberant and looking forward to the future," the spokesman said. He said cause of death was "uncontrolled bleeding."

Profound Shock

News of Dr. Cammarota's death caused profound shock among Bucks County educators.

Dr. Morton Botel, assistant superintendent of Bucks County Schools, said Dr. Cammarota "was generally regarded by her colleagues as one of the most outstanding educators we've known in the county."

She was assistant superintendent for six years — until June, 1962. The following school year was spent in travel and writing. In September she began new duties as assistant superintendent in curriculum in the public schools of Ossining, N.Y.

While in Bucks County, she resided at 51 Crestwood Road, Cobalt Ridge, Levittown.

On The Inside

You might call it the salad-dressing scandal — the $150 million loss of edible oils that has erupted into a three-prong investigation, a grand jury indictment and a sticky mess.

Read about it, about the storage tanks that either were drained surreptitiously or watered, about the purchase of 50,000 pounds of oil for five cents, about the Stock Exchange firm that had to go out of business — on today's feature page, Page 7.

Downtown
Riverside
Hit By Fire

Flames visible for more than three miles ravaged the business center of Riverside, N.J. this morning and continued this afternoon.
Damage exceeded more than $1,000,000 from the fire, which began about 11 a.m. somewhere in the 42-year-old Fox Theatre building on Pavilion Ave.
Riverside is located on the Delaware River about three miles south of Willingboro, N.J., formerly Levittown.
More than six stores on the block were engulfed in flames as a huge fireball appeared to dance across the roofs of the theater and stores.
Homes Threatened
Nearby frame homes were threatened and occupants began carrying out their personal belongings and evacuating the area. Near-panic ensued as mothers searched for their children in the streets.
More than 16 fire trucks from Riverside and neighboring communities responded. Firemen were hampered in their operations by thick, black smoke.
Firemen Overcome
A few firemen were overcome by smoke but no serious injuries were reported.
At 12:50 p.m., the fire jumped across Webster St. and a real estate office became ignited.
All electricity in the immediate area was cut off and three blocks were roped off by police to prevent spectators from getting too close to the flames.
Telephone lines were all but completely tied up and newsmen found it difficult to phone in their stories.

Bodley Is Elected
Board Chairman

replace Younger on the advice of county solicitor, Samuel S. Gray. At the meeting Gray ruled that the board served "at the pleasure of the commissioners."
The meeting brought one of the largest crowds of the year to the board room in the county Administration Building in Doylestown. Present were the wives of Canby and Farley, Farley's son, Walter, 4, accompanied his mother and made his presence known, chatting in a low voice.
County Controller William Cameron who attended the meeting opposed some of the plans of the new board. He objected to the appointment of William H. Frick as administrator of the county retirement fund for employees.
Cameron as controller shared that job until today and received about half of the $4,700 commission in addition to his salary. Cameron also opposed the salaries to be paid to four other appointees and succeeded in getting the matter tabled when Farley agreed to abstain from voting.
The board appointed four new solicitors. They are John S. Renninger, to the treasurer; George Bush, park board; William Thatcher, board of health; and Glascoff. Farley abstained from voting for Renninger, Bush and Thatcher.
Re-appointed were Samuel S. Gray, county solicitor; Edward L. Pearce, chief clerk to the board of commissioners; Claude L. Kern, chief of the clerk of the registration commission; Harold Hellyer, chief clerk of the board of elections; and John G. Fetterolf, inspector of weights and measures.
The board voted to borrow sums of money up to one and a half million dollars for the county and up to $150,000 for the county institution district.
Open Saturdays
The board also voted to have the courthouse open on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to noon starting in February.
Farley issued a statement today in which he pledged himself to be a full-time commissioner. He said he resigned his electrical engineering position with the Philadelphia Electric Co. last Friday.
He tagged the past board of commissioners as being controversial and said the former commissioners had been attacked by both parties. "It should be pointed out," Farley said, "some of the programs of the previous commissioners were worthwhile and needed. These worthwhile programs should be continued and not hamstrung or curbed because they were initiated by the past board of commissioners."

the outstanding pioneering works in remedial reading.
For the past two years Dr. Cammarota had been in the process of perfecting and copy-righting a new technique in audio-visual education with Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc.
She had begun work on a film strip, "Method of Audio Visual Education," prompted by a year's study and research trip around the world. Dr. Cammarota was also completing work on a spelling test.
During her years in Bucks County, Dr. Cammarota was active in curriculum work at the state as well as the county level. In 1956 she was appointed to the State Curriculum Commission which was instituted to advise the Department of Public Instruction on curriculum matters.
In 1962 the department started the practice of awarding citations to educators who had exerted outstanding curriculum leadership in the state. Dr. Cammarota was in the first group of 15 educators from the state selected for this honor.
Community Affairs
Dr. Cammarota was also active in community affairs in the county.
She was a member of the executive committee of the Child Welfare Study Committee, appointed by the county commissioners to investigate child welfare needs in the county. She was secretary of the trustees of the scholarship service of the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce. She helped to form and served for several years as vice president of the Bucks County Conference on Community Relations.
Several years ago Dr. Cammarota was appointed by Governor Lawrence to serve as Bucks County coordinator in preparation for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth. She later served in Washington at that conference as a representative from Pennsylvania.
Dr. Cammarota is listed in "Who's Who of American Women," and "Who's Who in American Education."
A native of Schenectady, N.Y., Dr. Cammarota earned her B.A. magna cum laude from the State University of New York at Albany. She received an M.A. from the foreign languages school of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., and a Ph.D. from Columbia University's school of education. She did additional graduate work at the National University of Mexico, Mexico City.
Dr. Cammarota is survived by her father, Pasquale Cammarota; three brothers, Edward and Alexander, both of Schenectady, and Armand of Detroit, Mich.; and a nephew.
Funeral Tomorrow
Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock at the Daily Funeral Home in Schenectady. Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. at St. Luke's Church, Schenectady.
The funeral home will be open tonight after 7 o'clock. Relatives and friends have been invited.

Scranton by Robert McClanen, chairman of the Industrial Development Committee of the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce, and repair work was started Friday.
Further plans were made to improve other sections of the road this week, "if weather permits," a spokesman for the state highway department said.
Says "Emergency"
McClanen said the condition of the road constituted an "emergency" and should be closed to traffic if "the state highway department could not maintain it."
A spokesman for the department, however, ignored McClanen's assertion that the department was "apathetic and lacking effort and interest" in maintaining Street Road.
The spokesman agreed that the condition was "hazardous" but only because of the "recent storms, which rutted the road and caused debris and ice to clog drainage facilities."
Wilbur Webb, deputy secretary for the state highway department, said this morning that "about 600 feet of the road will be re-surfaced today." Certain drainage repairs will be made also, he said.
Mammoth Problems
Plans are being made now to make Street Road into a four-lane highway, Webb said, but the public does not realize the "mammoth problems that have to be ironed out first before final plans are made."
Among the problems the secretary listed are the possible condemnation of ground at the Street Road and Bustleton Ave. intersection in Feasterville, a historic cemetery above Feasterville, a railroad bridge and the Pennsylvania Turnpike overpass near U.S. 1.

after tonight since he and fellow Democrat, Larry Cerasoli, from Croydon's third ward, are aligned with Fawkes and Charles Worthington of Edgely, the two Republicans on the new board.
Leonard B. Sokolove, commissioner from Levittown's sixth ward, who was vice chairman before resigning several months ago, may yield his commission-ership tonight in favor of taking over the $9,000-a-year job as township solicitor. The post is held by William J. Carlin.
Keyser In Line
Sokolove's position on the board would then most likely be filled by William Keyser of Levittown.
The three new commissioners to be sworn in tonight by Justices of the Peace Rene J. Tritschler and Joseph M. Haines are Arthur B. Reinhold, third ward; Richard Bonner, seventh ward, and Anthony Melio, ninth ward.
Fawkes and Worthington also will be sworn in tonight. Fawkes was re-elected to his second term last November. Worthington, who was first appointed to the board, was also victorious in the November election.
New Lineup
The new lineup of the board will find Kline, Ward, Sokolove, Reinhold, Bonner and Melio in the Democratic majority. The minority will be Fawkes, Worthington, Bellerby and Cerasoli.
Reinhold, Bonner, Melio, Fawkes and Worthington, in addition to assuming new terms, will be given $300 pay raises. Their salaries will be $1,500 a year. The remaining five commissioners will draw $1,200 annually. The board last year voted pay increases for new commissioners elected last Nov. 5.
To Replace Webster
James Aichele, another active Democrat in the township organization led by Oscar A. Booz, is expected to be named secretary of the board of commissioners, replacing James A. Webster.
Tonight's reorganization meeting will be at 7:30 o'clock in the cafeteria of Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, Mill Creek Road, Levittown. The revamped board will hold its first regular meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

Court To Hear
School Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether Prince Edward County, Va., must reopen its public schools, closed since 1959 to avoid racial integration.
The court set the case down for argument on March 30.
The Justice Department has contended as a "friend of the court" that keeping schools open in one place and closed in another is a denial by Virginia of the constitutional rights of the children without education.
But Virginia has maintained that providing education is the business of local communities and not the state's duty.

Situation On Cyprus Tense

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — The crisis in Cyprus grew tense again today with accusations by the island's Turkish leader that Greek Cypriots plan a "general massacre on a larger scale than before."
No new fighting was reported. But a British spokesman for the joint British-Greek-Turkish truce force on Cyprus said a Turkish school in the town of Larnaca was gutted by fire Sunday.
Despite the cease-fire agreement, Turkish life and property are still in great and imminent danger in Cyprus. Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, leader of the Turkish community, said in an appeal Sunday to all "peace-loving nations."

In his first official act as president judge of Orphans Court, Judge Satterthwaite administered the oath of office to Mrs. Frances Rothrock and Mrs. Blanche Foxhall as assistant clerks of orphans court. Mrs. Thelma Simons and C. Herbert Haldeman took the oath of office as deputy registers of wills.
Judge Beckert, in his first official act, administered the oath of office to Canby. Each official approached the bench singly and the judge took turns administering the oath.
A flight of a dozen Jordanian air force jets escorted the Pope's plane to the borders of that country.
In a farewell airport statement the pontiff urged an end to all bitterness, and wrath, and indignation in what appeared to be an appeal for peace between the Israelis and the Arabs.
The king in return pledged to preserve the holy places forever and called the pontiff "the greatest pilgrim of them all." Even after the pontiff's plane started rolling down the runway at Amman Airport, the youthful King Hussein raced alongside in his cream-colored Rolls Royce in a final salute.
Jordan's King Hussein bade farewell to the Pope in a speech pledging to "preserve the holy places forever" and promising to work with all his strength for peace and justice. He hailed the Pope as "the greatest pilgrim of them all."
Second Summit Meeting
On the final day of his pilgrimage, Pope Paul held his second religious summit meeting with Eastern Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras in two days. In the first such conference between a Roman Catholic Pope and an Eastern patriarch in 500 years, the two leaders agreed their encounter "may be the sign and prelude of things to come."
In three days, Pope Paul accomplished what no other pontiff had in centuries. He fulfilled a long-cherished dream of visiting the shrines where Jesus was born, grew up, died, and was resurrected.

County Now
Without D.A.

Bucks County is apparently without a district attorney.
Judge Paul R. Beckert resigned the office as he took the judicial office of judge of the Common Pleas Court this morning. Bucks County's four other judges met over the weekend to choose a successor but have not yet announced the appointment.
The judges reportedly have had difficulty reaching an agreement during the past week. Three candidates have been in the running: Ward S. Clark and Edward G. Biester Jr., both assistant D.A.'s, and William M. Power, Doylestown attorney and president of the Bucks County Bar Association, Levittown.

suits and chrome-plated World War I style helmets.
Despite threats of demonstrations by the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the Committee for Freedom Now, there were no major incidents Saturday. Three minor fistfight incidents along the route caused some delay in the parade, but they were quickly stopped by some of the 3,000 Philadelphia police on duty.
The Greater Bucks County String Band's long day started at 9:30 a.m. when the 70 members boarded two chartered buses from its building on Patterson Ave., Croydon.
Don Costumes
First stop was the Engine No. 69 Fire House, at Shunk and 13th Sts., where the Mummers donned their costumes and makeup (rouge and eyebrow pencil) and took a "coffee break."
The makeup artists were seven wives of the Mummers — Katharine Zepp, Mae Weller, Dot Yaffe, Lou O'Brien, Jackie Weller, Pat Kepner and Dot O'Conner.
Weather-wise, it was one of the best days in a decade for the parade — bright sunny skies, temperatures in the mid 40s and dry pavement.
4 Help Weller
Only the wind — with gusts up to 33 miles-an-hour — failed to cooperate. It took four men — braced against the strong wind — to adjust the huge, plumed American Eagle headpiece on 52-year-old Frank Weller of Margo Gardens, captain of the Greater Bucks array.
Weller and his seven-year-old grandson, Bobby, led the band along Broad St. Bobby was attired as "Uncle Sam," bearded and all. His father, Robert Weller of 43 Freedom Lane, Farmbrook, Levittown, played saxophone in the band — giving the Wellers three generations of mummery.
Ahead Of Band
Ahead of the band was a 1931 Model A Ford owned and driven by Thomas J. Graham, a collector of antique autos, from Rushland.
Next in line came a four-man color guard, attired in World War I doughboy uniforms especially imported from Paris for the parade. Carrying the colors of the U.S. and the "Fighting 69th" were Francis Clark, John Dransfield, Edward Brenner and Jack Hatfield of Joseph A. Schumacher VFW Post 1597 of Croydon.
21st In Line
The Greater Bucks band was 21st in line of march among the string bands. Trailing the Bucks array was the Palmyra (N.J.) band which placed 18th. The string bands followed the comic and fancy divisions.
In nailing down eighth place (they took sixth last year) the Greater Bucks mummers were given 86.75 out of a possible 100 points by the judges at the reviewing stand in front of City Hall. The Quaker City String Band of Philadelphia, in seventh, had 89 points.
Ninth place, behind Greater Bucks, was taken by the Hageman String Band with 85.75 points. In its 45th consecutive parade, the Hageman array was led by David Cote, 20-year-old state senior baton twirling champion from Morrisville. It marked his third year with Hageman.
26th Year
Among the Hageman bandmen in the "Clown Fantasy" theme was Jack Wright of Levittown, a captain with Levittown No. 2 Fire Co. It was his 26th year in the Mummers Parade.
First prize of $2,270 in the string band competition went to the Polish - American Club of Philadelphia with 97 points for its "Fantasy of Jungle Drums."
Scores of Lower Bucks Countians were among the throngs cheering the Greater Bucks' band's stirring musical selections led by James McKnight.
Enoch Tomlinson of 3507 Dixon Ave., Croydon, past president of Chemical Workers Local 88 at the Rohm & Haas Co., was bundled up along the parade route with his wife, Theresa, and their four children, Diane, 13; Margaret, 12; Terry, 5, and Nick, 15.
William Huhn of 34 Rocky Pool Lane, Red Cedar Hill, Levittown, took in the parade with his wife, Ann, and their daughters, Joanne 13, and Kathy, 11.
Bringing up the rear of the Greater Bucks band was Adolph Baran of Edgington and his son, Paul, 11, in a station wagon lac'd with food, refreshments and equipment. Another of Baran's sons, 18-year-old Ronald, played the accordion in the parade.
The Greater Bucks band's day was climaxed with a post-parade banquet held at Stony Mill Hall in Bristol.
Yesterday afternoon the band played before more than 2,000 persons on a whirlwind swing which saw them stop at the Croydon Fire House; Acme Supermarket on Route 13, Croydon; in front of Pomeroy's in the Levittown Shopping Center; in front of McCrory's 5 and 10 in the Fairless Hills Shopping Center, and the Country Club Shopping Center, Route 1, Levittown.

Firecrackers Set Off

Arrests Expected On Disorderly Feat

Lower Makefield police today were investigating a complaint that four Levittown youths set off firecrackers last night which disturbed an elderly couple.

Sgt. Charles Ronaldo said that the four youths are expected to be picked up today and taken before Justice of the Peace Robert Scammell. They would be charged with disorderly conduct.

A complaint was made at 8:02 p.m. last night that the firecrackers were being set off at an old, farm house in a remote area of the township where Abe Morris, 78, lives on Quarry Road, with his wife, Pearl, 68, and a brother, Hiram.

Like Gunshots
The complaint, made by a neighbor, Tony Zawicki, Quarry Road, was that "we heard several loud noises, which sounded like gunshots."

Ronaldo investigated and said he found the four youths from Levittown, with firecrackers in their possession, parked in a dark section near the house. The youths — two boys and two girls — were parked in a 1959-model sedan.

The four, whose names were not released by police pending further investigation, were questioned at police headquarters and released for insufficient evidence.

Ronaldo said he was further investigating the incident this morning and expected to make the arrests later today.

Previous Incident

This is the same elderly couple, he said, that was disturbed last year, and run out of their farm house by vandals.

Last year around the New Year's holidays, some youths were suspected as the persons who threw rocks at the old house, breaking windows and doors. The youths apparently didn't know anyone lived there, for they tried to tear the house down.

The elderly folk were forced to evacuate, and lived for several days in the township municipal building while repairs were made to the house.

Abe Morris works as a day worker for farmers in the area.

$35 Given To Mother Of Boy Killed By Car

Two more separate contributions totaling $35 arrived in the mails today for the mother of a son who was struck down by auto in Morrisville shortly before Christmas.

An anonymous check for $25 was contributed, and a Morrisville woman who lost a son of her own 20 years ago donated $10 more to Mrs. Dorothy Martin, 33, of 33 W. Philadelphia Ave., Morrisville.

This brings to $74 the total amount collected so far.

Struck by Car
Two sons of Mrs. Martin went to the store to buy tape for wrapping Christmas presents on Dec. 19. On the way home, the two boys ran out into an auto's path and were struck by a car at 720 S. Pennsylvania Ave.

James Martin, 7, was killed, and Frank Martin, 6, was injured and taken to the hospital in serious condition. Frank remained in the hospital for several weeks. He has improved since and was recently sent home.

In Driver's Behalf
Mrs. Martin, separated from her husband, works as a waitress in a diner in Morrisville to support her children, which includes two older ones. They are Helen, 14, and Robert, 13.

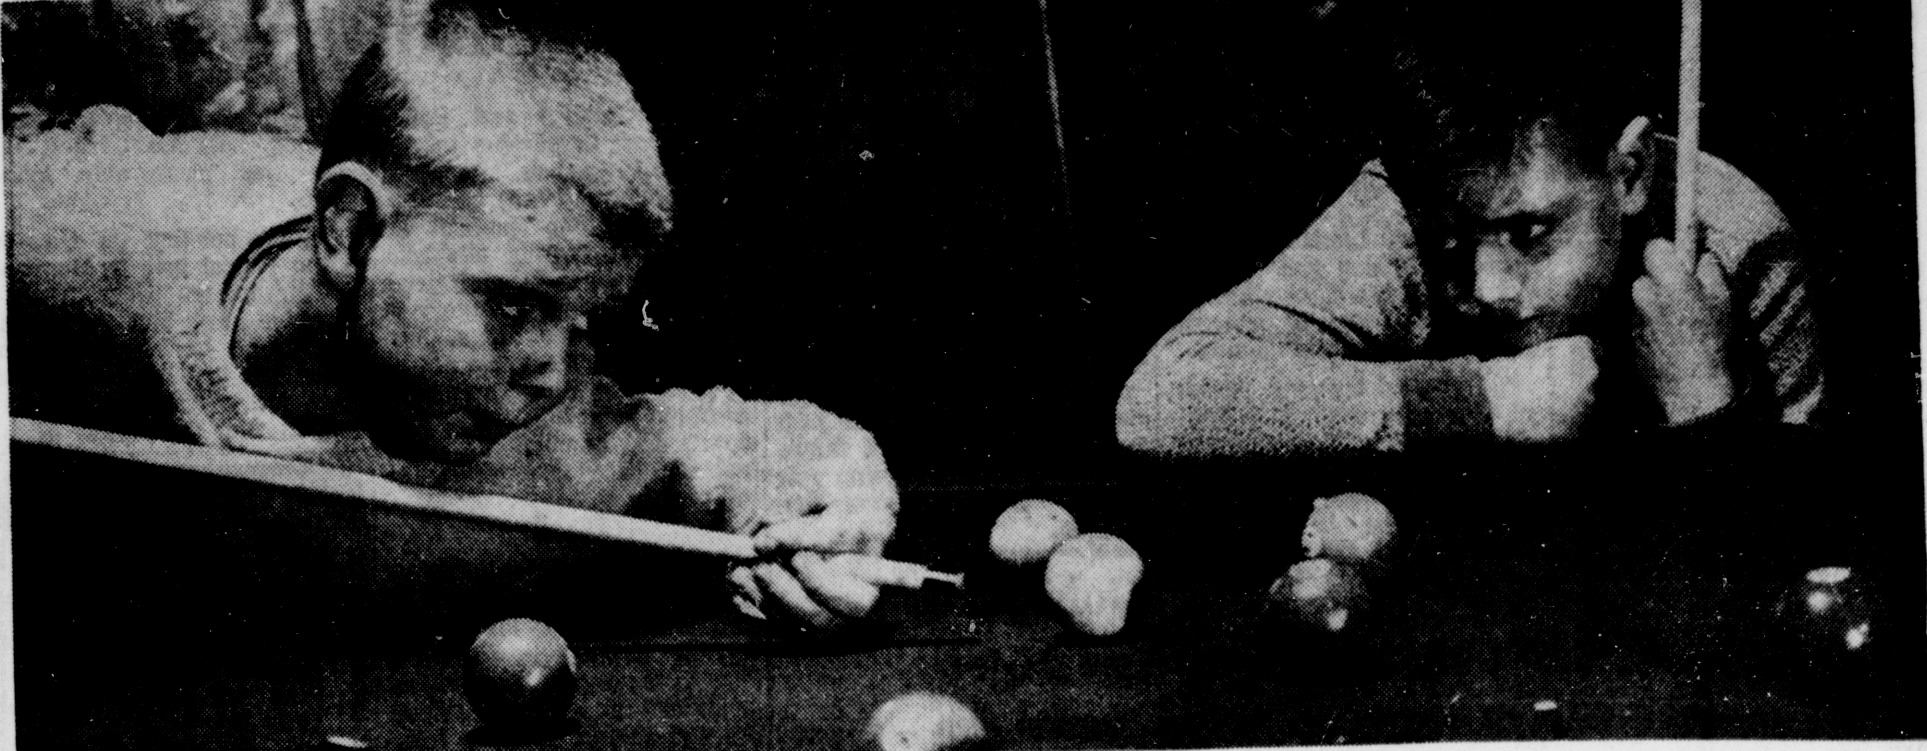

Yardley Center Slates Show

The Yardley Community Center will hold its annual antique show next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the center on S. Main St.

The show and sale will benefit the center. A spokesman said funds raised will go toward helping the executive board operate the center for the year.

Dinner will also be served. Reservations may be made on show days at the admission desk. Items to be exhibited and sold include old fashioned jewelry, old coins, fine glassware, China, commemorative plates and fine furniture.

The show will run daily from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

3 Lambertville Youths Tread On Thin Ice

Three Lambertville youths on the ice and about to go through. Carroll said that investigation showed that the three men had walked about three-quarters of the way across the river from the Pennsylvania side. The boys had parked their car while taking a Sunday afternoon drive, and decided to see how far out they could walk on ice.

Chief Lee Carroll of Yardley police said today one youth, Steward Kemble, 21, fell on the ice and cut his face. But police said it was not serious enough for hospitalization. The three managed to make it back safely to the shore.

The other two are William C. Scarborough, 20, and James S. Sarapato, 18, all of Lambertville, N. J.

Carroll said the radio dispatcher at 1:30 p.m. notified Yardley and Ewing (N. J.) police that three youths were out

First Negro Starts Classes At Auburn

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Negro Harold Alonzo Franklin, sole occupant of Auburn University's Magnolia Dormitory, attends his first classes at the newly desegregated institution today.

The 31-year-old graduate student, first member of his race to crack the school's color line, was scheduled to begin his history studies at 10 a.m.

Franklin registered Saturday on a campus heavily guarded by Alabama state troopers. He was greeted by a few catcalls but registered without the federal escort which accompanied Negro students entering the University of Alabama — the state's only other desegregated college.

Today most of the state troopers were gone. Highway patrol commander Al Lingo pulled out most of the 100 riot-trained patrolmen he had on duty and left security arrangements to a small detachment.

Franklin, who won a court order requiring the university to furnish him a dormitory room, was assigned a room in Magnolia Hall, a four-story dormitory otherwise vacant. He told United Press International by telephone Sunday that he spent a "very quiet" first night on the campus, but refused to answer other questions.

Drunk Driving Charge Lodged

A man who later told police he had been "drinking all day" got home alright yesterday — but he arrived there at the same time as Bristol Borough police.

And as a result, Horace L. Knowles, 65, 336 Cedar St., Bristol, was charged with drunken driving and released under $500 bail for a further hearing.

He was arrested outside his home by Sgt. Hubert Downes and Officer Raymond Grimes, after his car allegedly had been seen swerving down Mill St.

Knowles was given a sobriety test at Lower Bucks County Hospital shortly after his arrest at 1:55 a.m., but failed to pass, police said.

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The National Collegiate boxing championships were discontinued in 1961 largely because of the ring death of a college leather-tosser.

L. Makefield Board Will Reorganize

The Lower Makefield Board of Supervisors is expected to remain pretty much status quo as it holds its annual reorganization meeting tonight.

Peter F. Campbell is expected to be renamed chairman, and William Mackensen Jr. will probably be re-named secretary-treasurer.

The meeting is scheduled at 8 p.m. in the township municipal building. Other items listed on the agenda include the establishment of the salary of the superintendent of streets, Russell Carter, who is also a supervisor. His current salary is $7800 per year.

The supervisors will also establish the rate of compensation for themselves as board members. Last year, Campbell received $8 per meeting, and Carter and Mackensen $10 apiece. Now, all three are expected to get $10 per meeting since Campbell was reelected in November after the new salary scale was drawn up.

Architects Course Set

The second decade of the "T" Square Club refresher courses for architects begins Monday, Jan. 13, under the joint sponsorship of the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the T-Square Club of Philadelphia.

The courses are given with the cooperation of the Graduate School of Fine Arts, University of Pennsylvania. They are held at the T-Square Club, 315 S. 17th St., Philadelphia.

Registration will be accepted through Friday, Jan. 10, at the office of the Philadelphia Chapter, A.I.A., 2400 Architects Bldg., Philadelphia 3. Persons wishing further information have been asked to call Mrs. Vera M. Kurta at LOcust 3-7865.

Citizens Group Plans Meeting
